PROGRAM DESIGN FOR PROFIT

We need your ideas! With personal computers selling at 200,000 per month, the need for solid, useful programs will continue to grow for the next decade.

You can help fill that need and make money at it -- without leaving your job or school.

You may not think of yourself as a programmer -- you don't have to be. CodeWriter Design Systems let you concentrate on ideas -- the computer code is written for you.

You may not think of yourself as an "expert" -- but you probably know a number of things much more than average.
Your special knowledge and interest are all you need!

There are CodeWriter Design Systems to help you create business programs, home and professional programs, educational programs, tests, even adventure games -- all without programming in computer code.

If your ideas are good enough, we'll use our world-wide marketing network to sell them. There's no cost to you.

You'll be offered a non-exclusive royalty contract (which means you may continue selling your program yourself). We pay all packaging, promotion and marketing costs.

We have very high standards for our "ready-to-run" software.
We keep the cost down and the features high.

You can be part of our team and add to your income. What we need are your ideas and a little of your spare time.

You may never be a full-time program designer (though more and more CodeWriter owners are), but the challenge and rewards are there waiting.

Does a new career sound good?
