

ROME AND THE BARBARIANS

ROME and the Barbarians is a fast-paced military simulation of the western Roman Empire's struggle for survival in the 5th Century A.D. As the supreme military commander for the western Empire, your mission is to resist enemy attempts to vanquish your empire!

This sophisticated game demands a combination of military prowess and clever financial management. You control Roman legions and barbarian mercenaries as they traverse Europe in an effort to thwart barbarian invasions and peasant rebellions.

A scrolling map of Europe graphically displays the multiple battles in which your troops are engaged. Quick and exacting decisions are required to combat the continuously scheming barbarians who ruthlessly attack your cities. Because this game is written in machine language, the action is lightning fast!

As you begin conducting maneuvers, your Treasury funds become your essential weapon. You must skillfully regain the most valuable cities (based on tax revenue) and determine which cities can be forfeited. At your discretion, funds can be used to employ barbarian mercenaries and other militiamen. Your success will depend greatly on strategic war-time spending. As in actual warfare, military dominance ultimately depends on monetary strength.

ROME and the Barbarians is designed for gamers who seek continuous, multilevel action. Visit ancient Rome with the aid of crisp graphics and incredible sound effects. This game offers you a rare challenge—a challenge you'll love to meet.

NAPOLEON AT WATERLOO

NAPOLEON AT WATERLOO is a mind-engaging military challenge designed for real strategy-game enthusiasts. As Napoleon Bonaparte, you electronically plot the combat mission to be executed by your French cavalry, infantry, and artillery units. The tactics employed by the Anglo-Allied forces and Prussian legionaries at the Battle of Waterloo unfold with historical accuracy on your screen. Your goal is to overcome their efforts!

Your troops are equipped with classic Napoleonic armament: horsemen charging with sabers, soldiers attacking with muskets, and batteries firing cannons. Your challenge is to make decisions resulting in the effective deployment of these units as movement simultaneously and constantly progresses.

A scrolling battleground depicts the exhausting terrain encountered by the soldiers that you command. As you tread over ridges and march through woods and villages, your screen will display the level of morale among your units. This will indicate how you should adjust your strategy according to the number of soldiers wounded, fatigued, or killed. The threat of demoralization always exists.

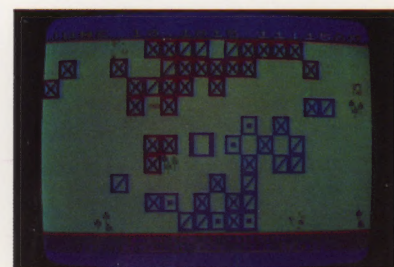

While the actual game lasts only 30 minutes, the entire 11-hour Battle of Waterloo is re-created. Your screen shows the battle-time, as measured by the game clock. The battle is concluded when the clock strikes 9:00 p.m., at that time the national anthem of the winning side will sound.

This game features the ease of play and graphics of an arcade game, coupled with the sophistication and enjoyment of a strategy game. You'll find playing NAPOLEON AT WATERLOO a pleasure to learn and a challenge to win!
