Stuff & Funny Stuff

Having missed the meeting last month due to a case of the sniffles or something I find myself at a loss as to who to pick on for this month's minutes. That being the case I am going to copy a couple of interesting articles out of our newsletter exchange. The first item is concerning 8-Bit information that was basically stolen from the Editor of the Frantic Antic newsletter out of that great foreign land of Alamo, Texas.

Newsletter Editor Manuel Garcia wrote an Email letter to Hasbro Interactive to feel them out on their stance on the rights to previously released 8-Bit Atari software which they had just purchased from JTS Corporation. The following is their answer (Highly edited):

From HIW Support (HIW@hasbro.com) To: Manuel Garcia

On March 16, 1998 Hasbro Interactive acquired copyrights, trademarks, patents and other intellectual property assets of the Atari Div. of JTS Corp. The Atari properties include over 75 game properties. Hasbro Interactive plans to release its first Atari title this fall with Centipede for both the PC and the Sony Play Station. Hasbro intends to develop various titles for all viable and available game platforms – PC – CD-ROM, Sony and Nintendo among others.

From the above letter it appears that Hasbro is going to keep all the rights to the 8-Bit games even there doesn't appear to be any chance for new releases for the 8-Bit itself. Oh well!

was still feeling fine. The doctor checked the husband's blood pressure and pulse and was amazed at how well he was doing. At this, they decided to try for 50%. The husband continued to feel quite well.

Since it was obviously helping out his wife considerably, he encouraged the doctor to transfer all the pain to him. The wife delivered a healthy baby with virtually no pain. She and her husband were ecstatic.

When they got home the mailman was dead on the front porch.

Till Later,
